

2023 Autumn Winter Collection

Our founder Andrew T Hogg. Circa 1915

Thank you for taking the time to read this special anniversary edition of our Workbook, which commemorates the impact of the Hoggs of Fife brand from its foundation in 1888 through to today, 2023. Still owned by the same family and still based in our iconic home region of Fife, the Hoggs of Fife brand has been going from strength to strength in recent years and we remain as grateful as ever to our retail partners for supporting our developments.

It all began back in 1888, when a 28 year old Andrew T. Hogg opened up the doors of his cobblers workshop, in the lovely village of Strathmiglo, Fife. Initially selling his hand made men's and ladies's footwear to the local country workers, he soon built an excellent reputation across the fieldsportsmen and farmers of Fife for quality, hard wearing products that gave good value and could withstand the elements, while staying comfortable throughout the working day.

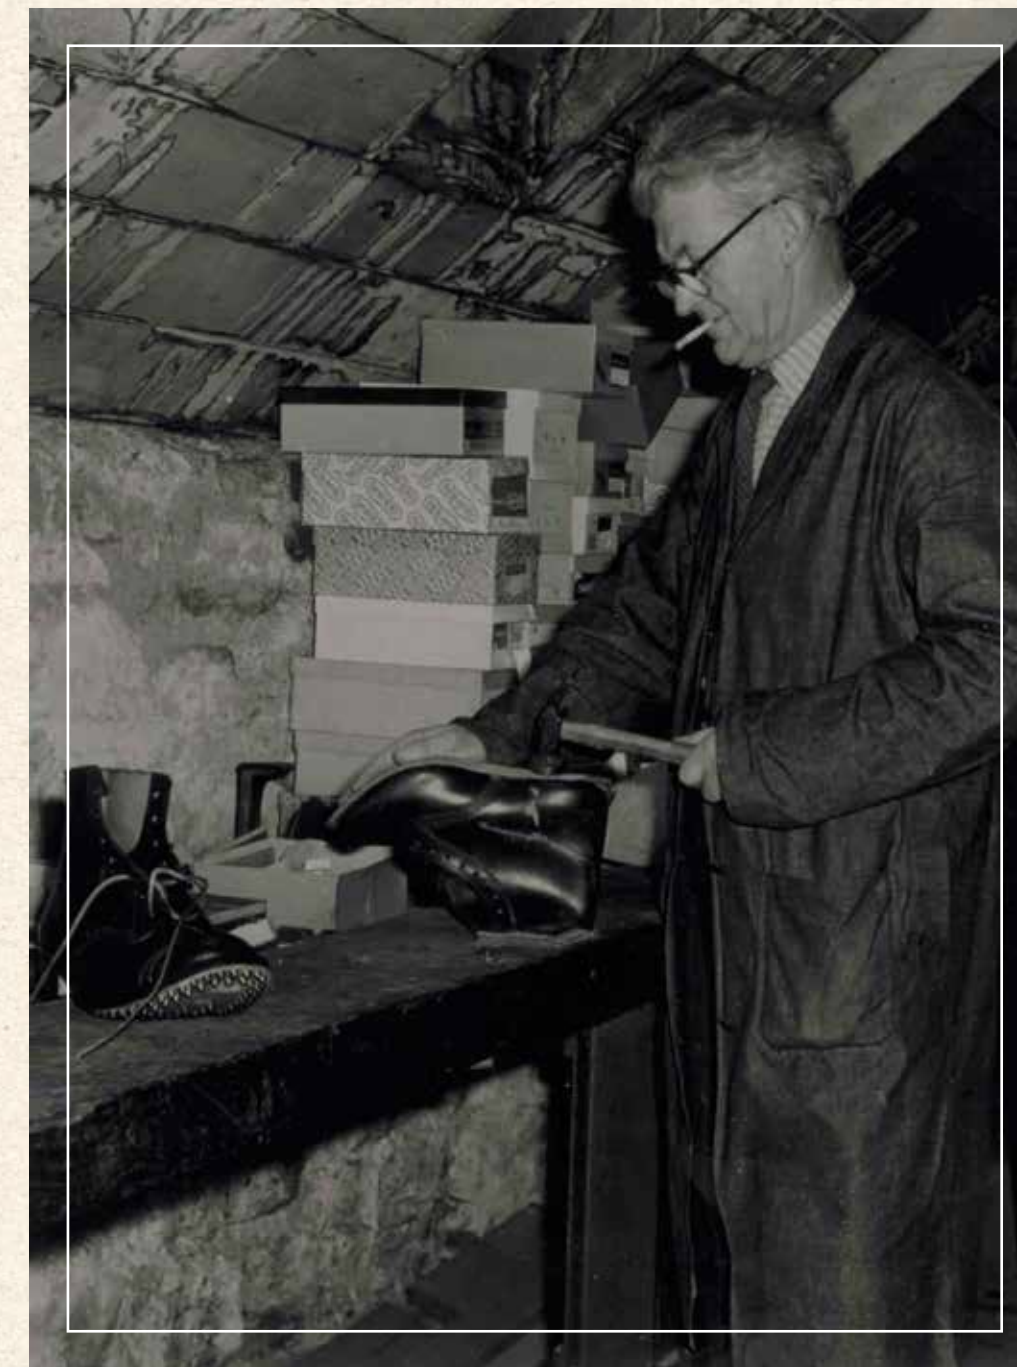

Construction of the Forth Bridge around that time was to open up a wider market for Andrew and word was spreading fast about these "Fife Boots by AT Hogg".

During the First World War, Andrew's skills as a cobbler were needed to supply boots for soldiers in the trenches and this noble cause ultimately helped to spread the reputation even further, with the returning soldiers wanting more from this 'Fife' brand.

As the 20th Century progressed, clothing and accessories were added, as the Hoggs of Fife customers demanded different products from this reliable, trustworthy brand.

It's remarkable that the 4th generation of the Hogg family still own and direct the brand today and equally as remarkable that the brand has embraced the new technologies and manufacture techniques at every step of the way, while maintaining the ethos of giving good performance and great value for money. In turn, some of our more traditional tweed and waxed country clothing, as well as selected footwear lines, are manufactured in the UK using the traditional and time-honoured techniques that have served the brand well through the decades.
